

BRITISH MUSEUM (NATURAL HISTOR

Cromwell Road,

London, S.W.7.

Telegrams: NATHISMUS, LONDON, S

Department of Entomology.

19th June, 1962.

Dear Dr. Spencer,

It was a great pleasure meeting you here in person the other day after so much correspondence.

You asked me whether I would like to see any of the material in the list sent me with your letter of 21.1.1960. I have looked through this and would very much like to see the slides from Hylecochla fasciosus (756) and H. ustulata (758) in case these have specimens of Myrsidea, a genus which at the moment I am trying to sort out.

If these specimens of Myrsidea and if the mounts are not in a suitable condition to show the necessary characters, may I please have your permission to remount them.

With kindest regards,

Yours sincerely,

Theresa Clay
Theresa Clay

Dr. G.J. Spencer,
Department of Zoology,
University of British Columbia,
Vancouver 8, B.C.,
Canada.

Spec 763 Varied Thrush. Myrsidea naevius (Gmelin)
759 Hermit Thrush
758 Swainson Thrush

ON HER BRITANNIC MAJESTY'S SERVICE

BRITISH MUSEUM (NATURAL HISTORY)

Cromwell Road,
London,
England

Department of Entomology,
University of British Columbia,
Vancouver 8,
British Columbia,
CANADA

I have a great pleasure in setting your name in the of the British Museum. I would like to see and of the with your letter of 21.5.1960. I have and would very much like to see the
from the British Museum (75) in case a genus which at the moment
I have a pleasure in showing the necessary characters, may I please
If these specimens of H. latipes and if the mounts are not in a suitable condition to show the necessary characters, may I please try to send you a photograph of the same.

Yours sincerely,

Thomas Clay

With kindest regards,

Dr. G. J. S. ...
Department of Zoology,
University of British Columbia,
Vancouver 8, B.C.,
Canada

BRITISH MUSEUM (NATURAL HISTORY),
CROMWELL ROAD,
LONDON, S.W.7.

THIS ENVELOPE SHOULD NOT CONTAIN ANY OTHER MAIL. IF IT DOES IT WILL BE SURCHARGED
OR SENT BY ORDINARY MAIL